LITTLE BETTING on this election.

Even Wall Street, having made a few small bets at 3½ to 1 is now betting brown derby hats. No matter who wins, at least 100 brokers will have new brown derbies in November.

Herbert Hoover will speak in southern territory, usually solidly Democratic. Governor Smith will speak in the farming West, where Republican officials are produced.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, who ought to know about farmers, says:

"The West is solid for Hoover, not a state beyond the Mississippi for Smith except possibly Wisconsin, which is doubtful."

Raskob claims three more states for Governor Smith—Indiana, Illinois and Ohio—giving the governor the biggest vote any Democrat ever had.

Mr. Raskob criticizes views of his former associate, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors, and says, without referring to Mr. Sloan, that great industrialists like prohibition because it keeps their men from getting whiskey, but wouldn't like it if it kept them from getting champagne.

A bad day yesterday for Ursus Horribilis, the Wall street bear that walks like a man but doesn't know enough to stop selling United States values short.

What happened to him was sad and mournful.

Four million shares were sold in spite of 7½ per cent "call money" and the Federal Reserve's continued encouragement of usury and usurers.

"Let them hear that have ears." Don't sell this country short.

Corriere di Napoli: "Dante's grave in Ravenna has been opened, his ashes stolen."

That won't hurt Dante, or help the thief.

That thief must be a strange creature, for he could only say to himself, "Those are the ashes of Dante," telling no one.

It is man's work that counts, not his ashes.

When Kings came back after the French revolution, they scattered Voltaire's ashes to the four winds. And they picked the right man, for it was he that put an end to French Kings. They are gone, he remains. They never succeeded in scattering him while he lived. He worried them.

Three thousand scientists, meeting in Glasgow, will discuss many things, from the speed of the electron traveling around the nucleus, inside the atom, to the origin of life and the meaning of death.

Men measure the distance of another universe, separated from us by 1,000,000 light years, and can tell you how many trillion times EACH second the electron makes a revolution in its tiny solar system.

But they know as little about life and death as they did when it was written "the heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth forth His handiwork."

Twenty-six women scientists will talk to the greatest scientists of the world, a good sign.

The British association has acquired for a permanent memorial Down House in Kent, where Darwin wrote his "Origin of Species."

That would please Darwin, much interested in that house. His real monument is "The Origin of Species."

Gene Tunney, champion heavyweight, having visited the Louvre, says he got "the thrill of a lifetime." Many Americans dutifully wandering from the Venus of Milo in her fine big room to the Winged Victory and on to Rubens' rows of fat ladies on the floor above, could not say as much.

It probably interested Tunney, who knows almost everything, to reflect that the stone palace containing the French art treasures is called "The Louvre" because it was once the King's "Louvrier," a small lodge in a forest where he hunted

SON'S DADDY HER SECRET

CALLS UNWED MOTHERHOOD "LOVE"

Miss Kate Pullman, an actress, is the newest "eugenics mother" in the news. She gave birth to a "love baby" in Chicago and refuses to tell the father's name. "He lives in Cincinnati and is perfect," she said. "The baby is just love."

ACTRESS IS MOTHER OF 'EUGENICS BABY'

Chicago, Sept. 6 (INS)—"Conventions? What do I care for conventions?"

That was the challenge laid down to a "canting and carping" world today by Chicago's eugenic mother, "discovered" yesterday with her new born baby at German Deaconess Hospital.

She is Miss Kate Pullman, 27, actress, once the wife of Edward Smith, New York vaudeville actor. She proudly proclaims the cooing little bundle in her arms the "perfect boy" baby, a eugenic marvel.

Miss Pullman declined to name the baby's father, but admitted he was a Cincinnati business man. Her story is strange and daring.

"I am 27," she said. "In 1918, while I was on the stage with the 'Rolly Bolly Eyes' company, in which Eddie Leonard starred, I met and married Edward Smith. But we were not suited to one another, were not happy. Life with him

STATE HITS 'GRAFT' IN HUB BUILDING LOANS; CLAIMS TENANT PAYS

An investigation to ascertain to what extent unscrupulous builders are obtaining excessive loans and fictitiously inflating property values and rents was started today by the Commission on the Necessaries of Life.

The probe is in compliance with an order adopted by the Legislature.

In a questionnaire sent today to representative financial interests, builders and real estate dealers, the commission asks for:

1—Information on any financing or promotion of apartment or other dwelling property which it is believed should be investigated.

2—Whether any service can be rendered to the legitimate builders or those who finance property that will prevent or minimize abuses in the promotion of new construction.

3—Any suggestions for new legislation.

NOT SOUND LOANS

"Most people have the understanding that the lending of money on real estate is a very conservative and well-ordered business," the commission states. "But the practices of requiring excessive bonuses, pre-

HUB FLIERS HOLD PLACE WITH AIR DERBY RACERS

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 6 (INS)—Earl Rowland, of Wichita, Kans., continued his lead in the Class A National Air Derby by reaching here today at 12:41 p. m. The fliers will stop over night here. The third leg in race will start tomorrow.

St. Louis, Sept. 6—The fliers in the 3000-mile New York-Los Angeles air derby reached here today on the second leg of their cross-country trip.

They left Columbus, O., this morning, first overnight stop on the trip. Tonight they will rest at Kansas City.

Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kas., flying a Cessna model A plane and still well in the lead, as he has been in every lap since the original 37 ships took off from New York yesterday, was first to reach here.

Rowland swept across the finish line at Lambert-St. Louis Field at

MARKET SALES NEAR 5,000,000 MARK

New York, Sept. 6—After U. S. Steel had advanced to 156⅛ and many oil stocks had advanced to new highs in a boiling market which promised to go well along toward the 5,000,000 share mark for the day call money advanced to 8 per cent, checked the advance, and the market ran off rapidly but orderly during a period of profit taking in Wall Street today.

In the closing hour there was a considerable rally under the leadership of Radio which, after dropping to 216, shot up to 221.

Trading started off at a brisk pace as powerful pools absorbed blocks of 1000 to 10,000 shares. More than a score issues, including U. S. Steel comon, were lifted to high records

$9000 for Care of Her Cats Left by Hub Woman

A fund of $9000 for the care of her cats is left in trust under the will of the late Charlotte Sutton of St. Botolph st., Back Bay, filed today in Suffolk Probate Court.

The will leaves several other larger funds for the benefit of relatives, and specifies that the residue shall go in equal shares to Trinity Church in Copley sq., the Home for Aged Women and the Episcopal Cathedral at Rochester, England.

'NO DANCE' GIRL FLEES

Disappearing from her home nearly two weeks ago, Adele Ferrara, 19-year-old daughter of a Revere contractor, has been sought unsuccessfully by police throughout the State, it was revealed today.

Revere police, who had kept secret the disappearance, said today that the girl never had attended a dance and went to only one motion picture show in her life.

Her only attendance at the theater was on the night preceeding her disappearance from her home, 44 Carleton st.

To her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ferrara, she penned the following note:

"I am sorry to give you the news of my leaving. You will be better off without me. Don't bother looking for me for it's too late, now. I will be more successful all alone in this wide world."

The girl was employed in a Boston department store and was under the strictest surveillance in her home life, Chief Edward J. Tigh said. She never was allowed outside the family circle after 8:30 p. m., he declared, and her one theater attendance resulted in a stormy scene at home.

ROCCO AND O'DONNELL DEFENSE INJECTS NEW FEATURE INTO CASE

Mention of two teeth lying in the street was injected today in a mystery move by defense counsel, into the Superior Court trial of Michael Rocco and William O'Donnell, charged with the murder of John J. Donovan in A st., South Boston, last December.

Donovan was shot and killed while at the wheel of his automobile. Witnesses have testified that two men fled the car and that, when captured, these two were found to be Rocco and O'Donnell.

In cross-examination by Daniel J. Gallagher, of defense counsel, Timothy Hourihan of Dorchester, garage employe in West Third st., said he saw no teeth in the street, but admitted that had he looked down he might have seen them.

"Didn't you see a couple of teeth

ABSOLVE NUN IN DEATH OF OBREGON; 6 CONFESS

Mexico City, Sept. 6 (INS)—Mother Superior Concepcion Acevedo, the Catholic nun arrested in connection with the assassination of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, was absolved from all responsibility today by half a dozen prisoners.

They admitted they had lied to shield themselves. The nun, with flashing eye and scornful face, cross-examined the prisoners at great length, compelling them to acknowledge that their statements about her were false.

One of the prisoners who made the retraction is Carlos Castro Balda, who is receiving a court hearing on the charge of complicity in the assassination plot.

He declared he is ready to "tell the inside story of the assassination in the presence of newspaper correspondents." He declared he could reveal the identity of the "men higher up" and that his story would astonish the world.

ANDREW URGES LEGION SAVE WAR RECORDS

Newburyport, Sept. 6—The record of America's participation in the World War—"the most glorious chapter in all our history"—is in danger of being lost to posterity, Congressman A. Piatt Andrew said today in an address at the opening of the 10th annual state convention of the American Legion.

A demand that the War Department publish the records and a request that the American Legion start a campaign to compel the government to do so "before it is too late," were made by the Congressman.

The department records are kept on wood pulp paper, which is fast showing the wear of time, he said, and unless they are soon given to the public in printed form veterans will never see the official records of the engagements in which they participated.

lowing the first business session in Town Hall, where Mayor Andrew J. Gillis greeted the delegates.

"Bossy's" welcome to the more than 500 in attendance was not alone the greeting of a mayor to a convention. He was a third-class fireman on a naval ship welcoming his "buddies" in the official capacity and the "higher rating" which fate has bestowed upon him.

"This is a small city with a big mayor," said Mayor Gillis.

"There is a little friction in this town and there always will be. Some of my worst enemies are my comrades sitting here beside me on this platform."

ENEMY ON PLATFORM.

Seated beside him was James F. Carens, commander of the local Legion post and former city solicitor, with whom the "Bad Boy" mayor has been at swords' points for a long time.

"Bossy" concluded his address abruptly with the remark: "I don't want to gas you too much."

Other addresses of welcome were made by Commander Carens, in charge of local arrangements, and Dr. Charles F. A. Hall, president of the local chamber of commerce.

Thirty honorary bands tuned up for a barrage of music at the beach this afternoon.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

Tomorrow and Saturday there will be parades. Saturday will be the final day of the convention, with an address scheduled by Governor Fuller and election of officers, in which a close contest is predicted.

To date there are three candidates openly in the field to succeed Commander John W. Reth of the State department. They are, Vice-Commander Dr. William H. Griffin of South Boston, Clarence W. Piper of Rockland, and Past Commander J. Harry McCaffrey of Cambridge.

A bitter fight is forecast over a resolution to withdraw the color line from the Legion's affiliated organizations.

miums, commissions, etc., precedent to the lending of money on real property, which enable unscrupulous builders to procure excessive loans and fictitiously inflate property values and rents, is mainly the subject of this investigation."

The commission points out that when there is a real or imaginary shortage of property the burden of "these large secret profits" may possibly be passed along to the tenants, otherwise the mortgagee or owner must stand the loss.

"Considering present housing conditions it would seem to be increasingly difficult to pass along to tenants the burden of paying such fictitious promotion costs, and it is therefore a question of vital concern to all who lend money on dwelling property and to honest conservative builders as well as to tenants," the commission says.

Woman Uses Hoover Cash to Aid "Al" Smith Drive

Washington, Sept. 6 (INS)—Some of the Hoover money may be used to help finance Governor Smith's campaign.

This was indicated today with announcement of Mrs. Francois Berger Moran, from whom the Hoover headquarters in Massachusetts ave., is rented, that she intended to vote for the Democratic nominee.

Mrs. Moran explained she rented her 50-room house to the Republicans to help her grandson, Jack Hudkins, "swing a deal."

"I told Jack to go back to Republican headquarters and tell them I was renting the house because I needed cash to buy a limousine, and I also told him to tell them that I was going to work and vote for Smith."

WOMAN IN RACE MAY BAR DRY REFERENDUM

As a result of the filing of nomination papers by Mrs. Edith H. MacFadden, Atty.-Gen. Warner was asked today by Secretary of State Cook to determine whether two questions relating to repeal of tax exemptions can go on the ballot under the public policy provisions.

The requisite number of signatures in the 9th Plymouth Representative district and in the 2nd Middlesex Senatorial district were obtained by Mrs. MacFadden, independent candidate for governor.

One question would draw an opinion on abolishment of tax exemptions on all land not publicly owned while the other relates to abolishing exemptions on all buildings privately owned, with a few exceptions. Both are among her campaign demands.

Because the law provides that not more than two questions shall be placed on the ballot in the various districts in one election, a favorable decision will mean elimination of questions relating to repeal of the 18th amendment as Mrs. MacFadden's papers were the first to be filed.

in the street when you saw the glass from the car?" asked Attorney Gallagher. "No, sir," Hourihan answered.

Q.—And no blood? A.—No.

MIGHT HAVE SEEN THEM

Q.—Wouldn't it be just as easy to see a couple of teeth as glass if the teeth were there? A.—I suppose if I looked down I might see them, but I went down there to give an officer his flashlight and I was not particularly concerned.

Q.—Well, if you were looking down would you have seen a couple of teeth? A.—Yes.

Defense counsel dropped the subject at this point and Alfred Wells, now of Putnam, N. Y., but last December working in a garage near the murder scene, took the stand

Wells testified that he heard three shots on the night of December 29.

"I started to walk down the road," he said, "when I heard the shots. I saw a car coming up A st. traveling along as though it was not properly controlled.

"After that I saw two men half run, half walk down Third st., and shortly after that—a matter of seconds—two policemen went in that same direction."

Q.—Did you seen any other car in the street that night? A.—No.

Q.—Did you seen any other persons that night. A.—No

Patrolman James P. Murphy of the Athens st. station testified that he was called to the murder scene by Patrolman Maloney and found the body of a man slumped down in the driver's seat of the auto with blood flowing freely from his head.

AUTO WINDOW BROKEN.

"Did you remain alongside?" he was asked by Asst. Dist. Atty. William McDonnell, the prosecutor. "Yes," Murphy answered, "and the ambulance came in three or four minutes."

Q.—Did you observe the windows? A.—Yes, I noticed the left front window was broken. It was down about two inches. There was a hole in it and some pieces of glass were gone.

Q.—What did you do? A.—I drove the car to the station.

Q.—What was the condition of the brakes and speeds? A.—The car was in third speed and the brakes were released.

Q.—Did you see any glass in the street? A.—Yes, some. It fell out when I turned the window down.

Q.—Did you see Maloney with anything that night? A.—Yes, he had a club in his hand going back to the station.

Cross-examination by Atty. Gallagher:

Q.—What kind of a club? A.—A policeman's club.

Q.—Have you seen it since? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know the police officer it belongs to? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know where Maloney found it? A.—In the rear of the car.

Q.—Anything else in the car? A.—No.

JURY VIEWS AUTO.

Paul W. Crowley of Capt. Livingstone's flying squadron next took the stand. Asst. Dist. Atty. McDonnell, however, suggested at this juncture that the jury might wish to view the death car, which was parked in the courtyard.

After the view, Crowley testified he went to City Hospital shortly after the shooting of Donovan and saw his body being received in the accident wing.

"Donovan had bullet wounds in his head," said Crowley. "I saw Rocco and O'Donnell in the patrol wagon.

"Rocco said it was an accident."

"We later went to the morgue, Rocco and O'Connell remaining in the patrol wagon.

"I asked O'Donnell what had happened. He said that Donovan, Rocco and he were riding in South Boston when someone on the sidewalk called Donovan.

"Donovan drove to the sidewalk," O'Donnell said, "and the man opened the door and fired the shots. O'Donnell said he was sitting in the front seat and Rocco in the back."

Patrolman Pays Fine of Boy He Arrested

Patrolman Daniel F. Murphy of the Metropolitan Park Police had to do something to stop the ball playing on Winthrop Beach, but, being big hearted, he shelled out $5 today to pay the fine of a youth he had taken into East Boston Court.

Murphy has been requesting the youths of Winthrop all summer to refrain from ball playing on the beach, dangerous to children and older persons.

But it continued until John Ritchie, 18, of Neptune ave., and Louis Somers, 17, of Tewksbury st., aroused Murphy's ire when, instead of surrendering the ball to him, they went into the water and buried their plaything to the sandy bottom.

Murphy haled the two to court. Judge Brown allowed them to plead nolo. Then he fined each $5. Somers paid. But Ritchie had no money and was headed for the lockup when Murphy stepped in and provided the $5. Then he and Ritchie shook hands.

70 INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES IN W. VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 6 (AP)—Twenty-one cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the state health department since Monday, Dr. David Littlejohn, director of the bureau of rural sanitation of the department, said today, bringing to 70 the number of cases of the disease in the state reported during the last six weeks. "There is no epidemic," said Littlejohn, "and we feel confident there will be none. Some of the cases reported this week are old cases that may have occurred months ago."

'EUGENIC BABY' BORN TO UNWED ACTRESS

was such as to convince me that conventions mean nothing and that marriage itself is but a scrap of paper. In 1920 we were divorced.

"On the stage I met many men. I knew that I would never be happy, as I grew older, without a baby of my own.

"And yet I found no man I would be willing to consider as the father of my baby. I wanted a perfect baby, don't you understand?

"Finally, in Cincinnati, I met the man my mind has pictured through the years. He is 36 years old, six feet two inches tall, has black hair and dark eyes and is robust and handsome.

"His name," she said, "is our secret. But he is in business in Cincinnati. He knows of the baby. If he cares to, he will come here, but it makes no difference, the baby is mine.

"That the baby is to be mine, always, was part of our understanding and agreement.

"As we talked, through weeks of our ripening acquaintance, discussion of the perfect baby came up. I told him frankly of my desire and of his place in my plans.

"He agreed to go through with those plans. We saw experts in eugenics. We took blood tests, mental tests, tests of physique. The experts declared we were perfect physical mates.

"We carried the plans through.

"I came to the hospital two weeks ago. The baby was born August 28 and weighed seven pounds five and three-quarters ounces. He has been in perfect health since, and has gained rapidly.

"Wrong? I think not. I sought happiness in marriage and failed to find it. I sought happiness and the baby of my heart yearned for out of wedlock, and found both.

"Conventions? I care nothing for conventions. I feel, and have felt, that I have the right to that happiness which is mother-love.

"My baby will be given every care that single-hearted devotion can give him. His future is well taken care of financially and the eugenic start that has been given him will give him a tremendous advantage over ordinary children.

"Those who rant and harp may criticise. For my baby and I, wrapped in one another, there is a little separate world. In it we will both be happy. That is that."

FLIERS REACH ST. LOUIS IN AIR DERBY

10:21 a. m. He was followed 16 minutes later by Robert Dake of Pittsburgh, in an American moth plane.

Rowland's 30-minute lunch period was nearly over and he and his companion, William Kowalsky of Detroit, were turning up for a takeoff for Kansas City, tonight's control point, when W. N. Emery, Jr., of Bradford, Pa., crossed the finish line.

The fourth plane to arrive was that flown by Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Kenyon of Boston. James S. Charles of Richmond, Va., flying an Eagle Rock, was fifth plane in landing, and Eugene J. Detmer of Tarrytown, N. Y., sixth.

Tex Rankin, flying a Waco, was seventh in, while the eighth plane to arrive was a Travelair piloted by D. A. Kendall.

Other planes arrived in rapid succession. After the prescribed 30 minutes' wait, all zoomed away again, heading for Kansas City.

Thre of the 31 planes that left Columbus when the race was resumed this morning failed to report at Terre Haute, Ind., first stopping place. Another flier—Dr. S. Phillips—remained at Terre Haute because of motor trouble.

One of the fliers to drop out en route to Terre Haute was Harry Snedley, of Kansas City. He was forced down about 20 miles from Indianapolis and obliged to [illegible] the race.

The fliers reached Terre Haute this morning in the same positions in which they arrived here. A great crowd cheered them as they landed at the Terre Haute Field and hastily refueled for resumption of the race.

The resumption of the race at Columbus this morning had been delayed by a heavy rain. Even when Rowland zoomed skyward and started the second leg of the race a blinding shower was sweeping the field. Better weather, however, had been promised further west.

Had the fliers not gotten away before 8 o'clock they would have been compelled to wait until tomorrow under rules of the derby.

The stops scheduled for today are Terre Haute, Ind., St. Louis and Kansas City. The planes are scheduled to spend the night in the latter city. All competitors in the race were at the field all morning, eagerly awaiting a favorable change in the weather.

When the race started in New York, yesterday, 37 planes zoomed into the air.

Six planes were later forced out of the race in Pennsylvania, en route from New York to Columbus.

Several pilots reported they had narrow escapes while flying low over the Allegheny Mountains in order not to waste time climbing for altitude.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept. 6 (AP)—The class B and C races in the New York-Los Angeles air derby were postponed today until tomorrow at 6 p. m., becaus of rain, fog and low-ceiling.

After the races were called off, five pilots withdrew from the class B race in protest against six planes which they charge have racing wings.

KILLED BABY IN CARRIAGE; IS FINED $50

"If a woman with a baby carriage is not safe on the sidewalk, I don't know where she can go for safety."

With this remark, Judge Sturtevant in Somerville district court today found Richard D. Long, Jr., of Highland rd., West Somerville, guilty of reckless driving in an accident which caused the death of a 21-months-old baby. Long paid a fine of $50.

Long's sleeve caught in the hand throttle of his car at the entrance to a Dover st. garage and the machine leaped onto the sidewalk, crushing a baby carriage wheeled by Mrs. Irene Flynn of Brookford st., North Cambridge. Her child, Marguerite, died of the injuries.

Northampton, Sept. 6—Flattering stage and movie contracts are among the latest in the shower of jobs offered John Coolidge, son of the President, who arose refreshed today following a long sleep after his tiresome train ride from Brule, Wis.

The producers of a smart Broadway revue are angling for John to play a juvenile role at a tempting salary. Equally lucrative offers for screen roles have been made, but John has no craving for histrionic fame.

The number and variety of positions available are enough to turn the head of a less sensible youngster. But John Coolidge is exhibiting the calm deliberation of his distinguished dad in settling on a career.

He refuses to discuss his reported engagement to Florence Trumbull or his working plans with anybody. Miss Trumbull has been in Paris and is to land in New York next Sunday. Young Coolidge will meet her in Hartford.

Miss Trumbull is going with her mother to their camp at Moosehead Lake in Maine soon after her arrival. Rumor here has it that John will be a guest of the family at the

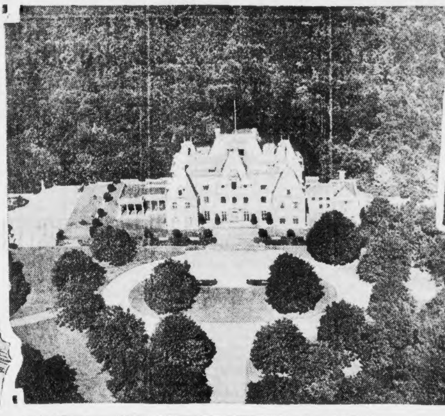
DAD MAY FORGIVE ELLIN

ONCE KEPT BOARDING HOUSE
Mrs. John W. Mackay, dominant figure in American and European society, who died yesterday, once ran a boarding house in California before emerging from obscurity to international prominence. There she met Mackay, then a humble gold digger.

RICHES CAME
To Clarence H. Mackay was passed the millions his miner-dad panned from the earth.



HEART-BREAKS GO WITH RICHES
The former boarding house-keeper then became a social favorite here and abroad. This is the estate at Roslyn, L. I., which she graced. But she lived to see her son, Clarence, divorced from his wife and her granddaughter, Ellin, forbidden the home by her father, Clarence, because the girl married a Jew.

RECONCILIATION WITH ELLIN
Ellin Mackay Berlin crossed the family threshold for the first time since her marriage to Irving Berlin, the composer, as her grandmother lay dying. Clarence Mackay is now expected to be reconciled to the "mesalliance."

BABY COUGHS UP 2 CIGARETTES

Rushed to Cambridge Municipal Hospital, apparently choking to death, two-months-old William Mansfield of Willow st., Cambridge, coughed up two cigarettes today.

According to the police, the baby was attempting to smoke cigarettes fed to him by his 21-months-old brother, Richard, but in the process swallowed two of them.

William began to choke and the police were notified, getting him to the hospital in an ambulance. After treatment he was taken home by his parents, none the worse for his experience.

SCORES OF POSTMASTERS ADMIT PAYING FOR JOBS

Washington, Sept. 6 (INS)—The post office department has obtained scores of affidavits from postmasters in four Southern states who said they have paid money to Republican politicians to obtain or to keep their jobs, Sen. RUTH IS CALLED HOME SCORNER

Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, Sept. 6 (INS)—Alleging cruelty because she disregarded her home since becoming famous as an aviatrix and moving picture actress, Lyle Womack filed suit for divorce against Ruth Elder here today. The couple were married in 1925.

This was the second divorce court experience of Miss Elder. She was married the first time more than six years ago, but the union did not last long, being dissolved in the divorce court. It was Womack's first marriage.

When Miss Elder went to New York to attempt her transatlantic flight last year she denied she was married, but later admitted that she had a husband employed in the Panama Canal Zone.

When she returned to the United States Womack went to New York to meet her, but received scant attention. He wanted her to return to his home, but instead she elected to go into the movies. Womack has been living with his parents.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 6 (INS)—Indicating that she would file a counter suit, Ruth Elder today expressed surprise that her husband had sued her.

"If he intended to do such a thing," she complained indignantly, "I think he might have told me of it.

"He knows I am here to earn money for the family and I think he would take that into consideration," Miss Elder declared.

ATLANTIC OCEAN FLIGHT COSTS RUTH ELDER A HUSBAND
Ruth Elder, the girl who flew half across the Atlantic then crashed, is today involved in an even more serious catastrophe. Lyle Womack, her husband filed a suit for divorce, alleging cruelty, in Panama Canal Zone court today.

HOOVER PLANS BIG FIGHT TO WIN SOUTH

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(International News Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 6—The greatest Republican effort since the Civil War to smash down the Democratic barriers of the solid South will be launched with Herbert Hoover's speech at Elizabethton, Tenn., on October 6.

Although Hoover has decreed that the fight to capture Southern states must be conducted under local leadership, the Republican National Committee will lend every effort and encouragement to the local organizations in the hope of returning Hoover victories below the Mason-Dixon line.

The fight in the South, the Hoover leaders felt, also will augment the favorable chances for Republican victories in the border states of Maryland, Kentucky, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Hoover personally discussed the Southern situation with J. Hill Taylor, Republican leader of Tennessee, and Senator Fred M. Sackett of Kentucky.

They assured him that the Republican party has excellent chances of carrying Tennessee, a "doubtful" State in presidential years, and was certain to carry Kentucky, one of the border line states that goes Republican but seldom.

The Hoover leaders also were watching the Texas situation. They were cheered considerably by the statement of Mrs. J. C. Griswold, Republican national committeewoman from Texas, that Hoover has a "good chance" to carry the "Lone Star" State.

Mrs. Selma McC. Woolridge, of Wakefield, today brought suit for $350,000 in Norfolk Superior court at Dedham against the estate of her brother, John O. E. Johnson, late of Milton.

The suit was directed against Linus C. Coogan, executor, and in it Mrs. Woolridge claims her brother sold for $300,000, property owned by her in Florida, and paid her only a small part of that sum. She says she engaged her brother to take care of the property for her.

CRANE ZOOLOGISTS WILL MAKE 25,000-MILE TRIP

Headed by Cornelius Crane of Chicago, summer resident of Ipswich, a zoological expedition will sail from Boston about Oct. 15, seeking rare specimens of land and sea life in Southern Pacific regions, it was announced today. Mr. Crane's yacht the "Illyria," well known in North Shore waters, will carry the explorers through the Panama Canal to the East Indies, where from New Guinea to Java the principal work of the expedition will be done. Rare types of fish as well as strange birds, mammals and reptiles of tropical islands will be collected. During the 25,000-mile journey the explorers will keep in touch with home by radio.

MEALEY RESIGNS JOB AS WIRE INSPECTOR

Stephen R. Mealey today resigned his position as wire inspector for the city of Boston so as to continue his campaign for senator in Ward 9, 10 and 11. HUB CLUBMAN TO WED WASHINGTON MATRON—BETTY ALDEN

MISS BETTY BARRELL
Popular Hub society girl took part in the Brackenside fashion show.

SLENDER AND GOLDEN HAIRED, MISS BETTY BARRELL GOT out of and into a succession of charming frocks with dispatch. And each creation topped its predecessor in attractiveness and in the perfection of its accessories. There was a frock of black and silver that brought sighs of ecstasy from feminine observers. And a figured taffeta brocade, antique as to pattern but as to design the very last word. Some magnificent gold and pearl earrings accompanied the latter confection, and with the former enormously long pendants of beaten silver and diamonds flashed an accompaniment to silver sequins that covered an odd sash effect.

PERHAPS THE MOST STUNNING FROCK MISS CONSTANCE PERCIVAL wore was a black velvet a sophisticated creation fit to grace the trousseau of a popular debutante. Transparent velvet, supple and gossamer, had its midnight tones and its swinging lines enhanced by large white flowers that dripped down from one shoulder and across the dipped-in-the-back skirt. Another frock in which Miss Percival swayed down the stairs and through the foyer was a bright red velvet all fluttery with narrow flutings. Miss Winifred Thorndike, debutante daughter of the Harry Hill Thorndikes of Boston and Bar Harbor, was fetching in a sports creation of brown, and lovely to behold in a tulle frock of oyster white and smoke gray.

IS THE TINY MELON MUFF TO BE FASHION'S FAVORITE THIS winter? Certainly the muff Mrs. Cornelius Conway Felton carried to match an ermine wrap was hardly large enough to warm her fingers in. But it gave the costume a piquant note and so perhaps Milady will deign to warm her fingers thus when snow flies again. Piquant, too, were the amusing long legged animals made of fur to exactly match Milady's smart fur coats. Pretty Miss Phyllis Ellsworth carried a gray lamb-like creature snuggled in her arms when she paraded in a stunning gray astrachan wrap.

Herrick-Pierce Nuptials Are to Be Celebrated in Washington Sept. 21

MRS. VINTON DAHLGREN PIERCE OF WASHINGTON BECOMES Mrs. Robert F. Herrick, Jr., of Boston, on September 21. The handsome widow and Boston's popular young clubman exchange their nuptial vows with simplicity and quiet at Mrs. Pierce's home in the Federal City. Even though a scant half dozen of guests are to witness the solemn ceremonial, nevertheless the whole town takes an intense interest in the alliance. Naturally, too, as the masculine half of the wedding duo is high degree Bostonian. He has everything—an assured place in the social sun, town and country houses, worldly goods and popularity—to make him a most eligible parti worth the most intensive campaigning by managing mothers for darling daughters.

SUCH MATRIMONIAL TACTICS CAME TO NAUGHT, HOWEVER, as Mr. Herrick succumbed to Mrs. Pierce's dazzling beauty and dynamic personality. It's safe to predict that as Mrs. Herrick she will create a furore among Boston's most high. As Miss Margaret Knickerbocker Clark she queened it in Washington during the briefest of first winters. Her marriage to the late Mr. Pierce followed hard on the heels of her presentation. Aristocratic lineage, a love for the chase, family prestige, personal pulchritude, all are the dower of this charming future Bostonian. Yesterday at the fashion fete at Mrs. Augustus Goodwin's in Hamilton Mrs. Pierce demonstrated that among other gifts she has the flair for wearing stunning clothes to perfection.

MRS. PIERCE IS RAVEN TRESSED AND SPARKLING EYED. Through the intricacies of the fashion pageant she moved like a slender, graceful, medieval figure, swathed in rose and gold, a wrap all fluttery with dawn-pink feathers. Another time she swayed and poised and moved before an admiring feminine throng in midnight satin beneath a magnificent wrap of ermine, dyed to softest brown. Again she was in dahlia red, moire soft as a kitten's ear and molded in utmost simplicity, when so vivid a color and so gleaming a fabric is at its best.

She was just a little old lady . . . the silver-threads-among-the-gold-type. Her eyes sparkled out of a gently wrinkled face as she asked the clerk for Weston's "that English Quality Biscuit." "They're for a dear old lady friend of mine," she said. "When her birthday comes 'round, I always remember her with a box of bonbons or chocolates. But you know, when I discovered Weston's, I said, 'There, that's what she'd like best of all, they have that clean taste.' She sure will appreciate them and they're so good for her, too!"

Be Different!

There's something about Betty that's different! . . . always a new word, a new thought. Dave certainly liked her. He came over last night, expecting something refreshingly new. Betty told him about her bridge that afternoon. She had entertained. And she certainly was different. She was the first of the crowd to serve Weston's, that inimitable English Quality Biscuit, the first to color her afternoon tea with that quaint English charm of English biscuits. And she just couldn't resist also serving Dave with Weston's. And do you know, now he keeps a package handy in his desk, where he "digs in" during the afternoon . . . they seem to fill the gap between meals so admirably.

The next time you serve, . . . be different. Serve Weston's, soon to sweep your neighborhood.

OUSTED SCHOOL HEAD FIGHTS IN COURT

The question of the administrative ability of Thomas S. Foley, ousted principal of the Avery and Quincy schools, East Dedham, was thrashed out today in Superior Court before Edwin C. Jenney sitting as a master.

Commissioner Jenney was appointed by Judge Crosby of Supreme Court to hear evidence on the writ of mandamus brought by Foley, to declare his removal void and to effect his reinstatement on the ground he was not given an opportunity to defend himself.

The first witness heard was Roderick W. Hine, superintendent of Dedham schools, who said his attention had been called frequently to Foley's lack of tact and good judgment. On his own observation he said the schols headed by Foley were run poorly, that Foley was no disciplinarian and the management of the pupils was poor. He said the children were noisy and disorderly.

The superintendent said that during the past five years he had received complaints of Foley from several teachers, including a Mrs. Evans and a Mr. Murphy. The witness said the members of the school committee agreed with him that Foley was a misfit and should not have held the position.

Hine said there was no question of morals, but simply that Foley lacked administrative ability, which he defined as the ability to run a school properly and administer discipline.

EXPECTS 'DEAD' MAN TO WALK

New York, Sept. 6—Dr. Louis H. Taylor, close personal friend of John M. Phillips, indicted Queens sewer-pipe magnate, has expressed doubt that it was Phillips' body that was buried recently.

"The trick wouldn't be beyond him," Dr. Taylor said. "The body didn't look like Jack Phillips. He had been a very sick man and the man in the coffin was robust. I wouldn't be surprised to see Jack Phillips walk in here at any time."

He said that he thought the body ought to be exhumed and an autopsy performed.

CHILD'S ALARM CALLS TWO CITIES' FIREMEN

COURT REFUSES TO ORDER CURLEY PUT ON BALLOT

The petition of Thomas F. Curley of Lynn to force the Secretary of State to put him on the ballot as a candidate for nomination for Lieutenant-Governor in the Democratic primaries was rejected today by Judge Crosby in Supreme Court on the ground that the registrars of voters of Lynn and Boston acted within their proper powers in failing to credit Curley with sufficient signatures on his nomination papers.

FULLER WON'T CALL SESSION ON INSURANCE

Governor Fuller, who caused a stir throughout the State by flaying "the insurance lobby," has no intention of calling a special session of the Legislature to settle the complicated question, according to his secretary, Herman A. MacDonald.

It is understood the overnor believes there is no cause for alarm in the withdrawal of the New York Indemnity Co. from the compulsory automobile insurance field in Massachusetts.

Even if more companies quit writing this form of policy, it only means additional business for the others that are bound to remain in the field, in the opinion of other State officials.

"Every indication is that there will be no special session," said McDonald, when asked about the report that there would be one.

In his attack on the "insurance lobby," Governor Fuller declared he tried unsuccessfully to get the Legislature to investigate insurance rates. He asserted that the people were being charged exorbitant rates and the lobby "told the boys in the Legislature what to do and practically every mother's son of them made a low bow and took off his hat."

50,000 HEAR MASS AT EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Sydney, Australia, Sept. 6 (AP) A Pontificial high mass, celebrated this morning in St. Mary's Cathedral by Cardinal Cerretti, Papal legate to the Eucharistic Congress, surpassed in dignity and color all ceremonies in connection with the congress. Fifty thousand people paid homage to the stately procession which preceded the service, transmitted to them by amplifiers. Assemblies heard sermons regarding the Eucharist delivered in several languages at various halls.

GIRL, MAN IN TORREY CASE SENTENCED

A man and girl, who, police say may have been witnesses to the mysterious fall of Wilbur K. Torrey, 20, of Winthrop, from the window of an Audubon rd. apartment, were arraigned today in Roxbury court and found guilty on complaints against them.

Torrey is near death at City Hospital. After a long investigation the police are without the explanation of the accident.

The girl is Mrs. Annette Conway, who lives in the apartment house. She was found guilty of being idle and disorderly and held in $1000 bail by Judge Hayden. Disposition of her case will not be made until September 12.

Albert Perry of Dartmouth st., who was detained today by Sergt. McNabb and Special Officer Joseph Condon merely for questioning, was later charged with transporting liquor. Two bottles of beer and two and a half pints of whiskey are alleged to have been found in his possession.

He was found guilty by Judge Hayden, given six months in the House of Correction and fined $100. He appealed and was held in $1500 bail.

During a few moments of consciousness at the hospital, Torrey told a policeman that he fell from the window. The girl told police that only she and Torrey were in the apartment.

camp for a few weeks before starting out to seek his fortune.

John's first duty today was to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, at Dickinson Hospital where she has been ill since Dec. 11. She was delighted to see him looking so bronzed and well after his long vacation in Wisconsin and he was equally pleased to find her so comfortable.

"Beans," the family Boston brindle, was so glad to see John that he almost wagged the stub of his tail off.

Mrs. Alice Reckhan, the Coolidge housekeeper, gave John a hearty welcome and had a steaming hot meal ready.

A secret service man accompanied John from Wisconsin. He stopped at Hotel Draper. They are to remain here a few days and will go to Connecticut the latter part of the week.

"They told me Smith sentiment in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh was tremendous," John J. Raskob, national chairman, said.

$700,000 FOR LOVE

RADCLIFFE GRADUATE IN SUIT

The tragic story of a blighted romance that blossomed in youth, bloomed in young womanhood but died when middle age was reached, lies behind the $700,000 suits brought by Miss Alice G. Porter, 50, Radcliffe graduate, against the estate of her cousin, the late Allen A. Hooker, Boston broker.

Miss Porter, who for many years was a Boston school teacher, declares that for 14 years her cousin protested his love for her, and insisted that they would be married.

Time after time, she says, the date for the wedding was tentatively fixed, but something always occurred to cause a postponement.

When an opportunity came for her to rise in her profession, she tossed it aside, she says, because of her love for her cousin, and because he insisted that he needed her near him.

Then, in 1926, came the rude awakening, she says, with the announcement that her cousin had married his stenographer. Now, at the threshold of old age, the Medford woman declares she will use every artifice of the law to collect the fortune that she believes is rightfully hers.

Miss Porter, in one suit, seeks $200,000 on the strength of a note she says her cousin gave her. The note, she says, is for $100,000, and when signed by her cousin was made payable on his death.

The other suit for $500,000 is for the residue of the Hooker estate, the former school teacher alleging that she has a written agreement, signed by her cousin in the presence of his father and mother, in which he agreed to give his entire estate to her in event he died without marrying her.

Bails Chauffeur

Princess de Braganza of Newport, R. I., gave bail for her chauffeur today after crash in which one may die.

DYING IN PRINCESS' CAR CRASH

Newport, R. I., Sept. 6—The Princess Miguel de Braganza, widow of a member of the royal line of Portugal, and formerly Anita Stewart, appeared in court today and furnished bail for her chauffeur, held in connection with a serious automobile crash.

The chauffeur, Russell Brown, was arrested as the operator of the machine which collided with a car operated by Frederick Robbins of Woonsocket, grand master of Odd Fellows in Rhode Island, seriously injuring Robbins and his wife.

The couple are in the Newport Hospital, Robbins suffering from concussion of the brain, internal injuries, broken arm and a scalp wound. He is expected to die. Mrs. Robbins suffered a broken left arm and other injuries.

At Anthony Hill, Portsmouth, the police say the limousine, on its way to the Princess at Providence, crashed broadside into the Robbins' car.

Brown was charged with operating so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, and the case was continued for a hearing September 14.

Story of Modern Marriages and Husband Hunters

CHAPTER 9

THE Yacht Club had been trimmed with gay streamers and pennants fluttered all along the balcony, lending to the big ballroom the look of a yacht dressed for holiday. But the mad touch was hundreds of toy balloons, bobbing up and down against the ceiling, here and there, in colorful chaos, dangling long strings for dancers to snatch as they whirled about the floor.

Just out of reach the strings were and Di, arriving a bit late with her party, gave a little shriek of delight and jumped for one, only to fall back defeated.

It was then Noddy and Toddy caught her up, holding her by the ankles and rushing down the room while the drummer rolled a salute and the crowd cheered.

Whooping excitedly, she gathered in balloons right and left. Midst shouts of "Atta-girl!" the boys put her on a table and she stood laughing up at her prizes, a slim, graceful sprite of a figure, all sparkle, inspiration of a new free note in the fun.

The orchestra leader glanced over his railing, brought his baton up, then down. A quick, chuckling strain tumbled from the instruments. This was the music for the eccentric solo dance the crowd forever begged Diana to do. She flashed a grin to the applauding revelers and her little feet began to move.

A combination of tap hoofing and athletic genius it was with steps she had invented herself—a finished performance, artistic and beautiful, simple only because she did it so well. The high heels led the orchestra, slowing the tempo sometime, then speeding it to a whirlwind clatter with all the instruments banging and the saxophonist turning quite purple with the effort to keep up.

And when she stopped there was so much disdain that she must give an encore—then another while the crowd kept time by waving handkerchiefs and fans and captured balloons.

But in the end Diana signalled Noddy and Toddy and brought the thing to a finish with a swan dive from the table straight into their arms. They bore her away as the "little man in the tin box" mopped his head and struck into a fox trot and everybody danced.

Norman was waiting by the ver-

MOTHER'S PLEA WINS OUT IN RUM TRIAL

Brockton, Sept. 6—Pleading guilty to a liquor charge against her but making a nearnest appeal in behalf of her son, who was in Brockton court on another liquor complaint, Mrs. Agnes McFadden of Plymouth st., Bridgewater, won what may turn out to be a double victory.

Judge Rowe had her change her plea to not guilty so that he could continue the two cases for one week during which time an investigation will be made of her story.

She is charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale. Her son, Arthur, 18, is accused of making a sale. Declaring she wanted "justice" for her son, Mrs. McFadden said he had never had anything to do with liquor.

For her own part, she admitted handing liquor over to a state officer but asserted she had not taken the $2 he offered in payment.

BISHOP DIES OF THUG BEATING

Cincinnati, Sept. 6 (AP)—Right Rev. Joseph Crane Hartzell, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church for Africa, died at Christ Hospital today. His death was due to injuries suffered when he was bound and beaten by robbers in his home at Blue Ash, near here, June 1.

Bishop Hartzell, known as the "David Livingstone of Methodism," gave 20 years of his life to spreading Christianity in the heart of Africa.

Receiving as a gift from Cecil Rhodes, British "empire builder," 33,000 acres in Rhodesia at the time the British government built its railroad across Africa, Bishop Hartzell developed an educational and missionary center, which has, since his retirement, been enhanced by more than $50,000 by the church.

Bishop Hartzell was active in Eastern Rhodesia and East Africa, the east coast and Liberia, on the Congo and in Angola in the west coast and in the Madeira islands.

When he accepted the African post he did so with the intention of remaining 20 years. At the end of that time, and at the age of 72 he retired and came to Cincinnati.

HINT VERNON STILES AND WIFE ARE RECONCILED

Los Angeles, Sept. 6 (A.P.)—Possibility of a reconciliation between Vernon Stiles, internationally known opera singer, and his wife, Hester Stiles, pianist, was seen today in the filing of an application for the dismissal of Mrs. Stiles' sensationally worded divorce suit.

A suit for $250,000 against Mrs. Eloise McGinnis, young wife of a New York and Montana copper king, charging her with alienation of affections, was quietly dismissed several days ago by attorneys for Mrs. Stiles.

SMITH LEAD CUT BY BERKSHIRE VOTE

HOOVER FIGURES GET BOOST IN BAY STATE STRAW POLL

A huge vote is being cast by the citizens of the smaller towns in western Massachusetts for Herbert Hoover, according to the tabulations of the straw vote conducted throughout New England by the Boston Evening American.

The avalanche of votes cast during the past week in Berkshire centres for Hoover, has had its affect on the totals already given Governor Smith by the large cities.

Hoover's gain has been slow and steady. There seems to be no question but he will carry every small town in Massachusetts in the present straw vote.

While Smith has piled up a strong lead in cities such as Brockton, Lowell, Lawrence, Boston, Haverhill and other textile and manufacturing points, Hoover has been annexing enough votes in the towns to cut the Smith figures. It would not be surprising to see the G. O. P. nominee forge ahead soon.

HOOVER GETS "BREAKS"

The situation in Rhode Island is practically the same as in this State. Smith seemed to have a walkaway, but when the poll of the smaller cities and towns was received, it was a different situation, with Hoover getting the breaks.

In a block of 492 votes, tabulated from Massachusetts, including Boston, Hoover received 263 and Smith 229. In 1924 Coolidge got 347 Davis, 78. Hoover got 58 women to 47 for Smith. In 1924 the same women voted 73 for Coolidge, and 19 for Davis.

The switching of votes, which seems to be universal throughout the national poll which is being taken by the Hearst newspapers, shows that Smith has captured the majority of those who voted for Coolidge in 1924.

CAPTURES 117 VOTES

In the block mentioned above, Smith gets 117 votes that were Coolidge's in 1924, and these include 22 women. Hoover captured 10 from the Davis column, which included one woman. Sixty-seven did not vote in 1924, and of this number 13 were women.

Some of the cities and towns in the western part of this State which are swinging to Hoover in the straw vote, are Adams, North Adams, Northampton, Springfield, Worcester, Holyoke, Ware, the Brookfields, Montague, Hatfield, Auburn, West Springfield and Williamstown.

Nearing Boston, the tabulation shows that Hoover leads in the following cities and towns: Ayer Belmont, Concord, Foxboro, Great Barrington, Greenfield, Hudson, Ipswich, Manchester, Mansfield, Needham, Plymouth, Reading, Rockport, Saugus, Somerville and Southbridge.

An example of what some blocks of votes show, is given in the following from Worcester: Smith, 20; Hoover, 30; in 1924, Coolidge 40 and Davis 4. The women voted this year, 6 for Hoover, and 4 for Smith. In 1924 they gave Coolidge 9 and Davis 0. Smith got 14 votes, three of them women, in the switching, while Hoover got 2 from Davis Six did not vote in 1924, one being a woman.

In Holyoke a block of 20 looked like this: Hoover, 12; Smith, 8. In 1924 Coolidge got 15; Davis, 2. Hoover received two votes from women against none for Smith. Smith received 3 votes from Coolidge, while Hoover failed to get any from Davis.

Scituate, Rhode Island is more solid for Hoover than it was for Coolidge in 1924. In a block of 46 votes, Hoover gains 5 votes over the vote given to Coolidge. In the shift, 3 men who voted for Davis in 1924 will switch to Hoover this year, and 2 women who were for Davis have turned to Hoover. This town is one of the G. O. P. strongholds of the State.

The vote as tabulated shows: Hoover 26 men, 11 women, total of 37; Smith, 7 men and 2 women, a total of 9. In 1924 Coolidge had 24 men, 8 women total 32; Davis, 10 fen, 4 women a total of 14.

West Greenwich, the smallest town in Rhode Island so far as voting strength is concerned, will give Hoover most of its vote this year. Normally, the Republicans gather more than 90 per cent of the vote, and this year they probably will do better.

In a block of 26 votes, Hoover is given 24 and Smith 2; Hoover 16 men and 8 women, total 24; Smith, 2 men and 0 women, total 2. In 1924, the vote was: Coolidge, 16 men, 7 women, total 23; Davis, 2 men, 1 woman, total of 3.

The woman who gave Davis a vote has switched to Hoover this year, which gives Hoover, in the block of 26 votes, a margin of 1 over Coolidge.

While the switching of votes is general, it appears that Hoover in New England is receiving the normal strength of the Republicans.

It is also apparent that Smith is getting the vote of many Democrats who voted for Coolidge in 1924.

It is also safe to assume at this period of the straw vote that Hoover will have no trouble in Vermont, Maine or New Hampshire. His lead is substantial in all three of the northern New England States, although Smith has increased the votes given to Davis four years ago by almost two to one.

The vote of the women in the smaller towns is generally for Hoover, and likewise in many of the large cities the feminine vote leans toward the G. O. P. nominee.

BOMB WRECKS HOME IN WISCONSIN STRIKE AREA

Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 6 (AP)—Bombers rocked the northwest section of Kenosha with the 13th blast of their dynamite campaign. A woman employe of the Allen Company was seriously injured by fragments of the exploding "pineapple." Her home was partially demolished. The home of Chauncey Pitts was the bomb target. Pits is a union tinner and has no direct connection with the Allen A strike. His wife, however, is an inspector at the knitting plant.

ATWATER KENT RADIO

THE 1929 ELECTRIC SET

Up-to-date radio
that you can trust on its record

CHOOSING an automobile—or a watch—you buy on reputation.

"Who makes it? What experience is behind it? What do the owners say?" Naturally, you ask these questions—and on the answers you base your purchase.

It's the same with radio. When radio was new, Atwater Kent had already had many years' manufacturing experience. People knew the Atwater Kent reputation for thoroughness and simplicity and fineness. So they bought Atwater Kent Radio—and found it good.

Because it is good, the number of purchasers grows larger and larger, until now it is approaching nearly 2,000,000. This popularity enables us to develop still better radio and more economical ways of making it.

And now you find the results of all this experience in the 1929 all-electric set. It is simpler, more powerful, brings in stations over a wider range, has a tone so clear that when you listen you don't think of the set at all—only of the singer and his song.

It's compact—radio of full stature in comfortably small space. And (here's where experience and ample manufacturing facilities count again) it costs little.

On its reputation—on what a host of delighted owners say—you can trust this 1929 all-electric Atwater Kent. Clinch your impression with a home demonstration. Telephone the nearest Atwater Kent dealer. Or drop in and see him.

CONNIE SEES GLORY AHEAD AFTER 15 YEARS

SLIM CORNELIUS McGILLICUDDY, after 14 terrible years of unrewarded effort finally is in sight of another baseball crown. Connie won more of them than most, when he had his great team back before the war. As far away as 1915, he set out to build up a new baseball club.

Nick Flatley

He had the money and knew the game. But he had never a chance to horn in on the golden world series until the strange explosion of the Yanks revived his dying hopes this past month. That shows what a tough proposition it is to manufacture a winning ball club.

Connie is now within nodding distance of the pinnacle. If his inspired ball club can knock off the Yanks in the series that starts Sunday, the tall tactician will be, in all likelihood, one of the directing geniuses of the October diamond derby.

Mack has spent millions and burned up endless energy to get himself within range in 15 years. He had far more equipment to begin with than almost anybody you might name could bring to the job.

That's why none but bloated millionaires can hope to step cold into big league baseball, and skim the apparently soft profits.

PRESIDENT of California, shocked at tumultuous greeting to victorious Olympic crew, wonders what sort of reception Dr. Milliken of Cosmic Ray fame would be tendered. Why wonder? None would give a hooray. The Doc would just call himself a cosmic taxi and be driven through the swirl of collegiate flivvers to the laboratory. Competition in science has no appeal whatever to the popular mind.

AMATEUR GOLF ONE OF YEAR'S GREAT EVENTS

THE greatest array of amateur golfers the world has known swap shots all next week out at Brae Burn. The amateur title play has grown to be one of the world's greatest sport events. No other pastime can provide six solid days packed with so much thrill; a week loaded with the chance of startling upset and the opportunity for unknown youth to soar to dizzy heights of glory.

Boston's big golf [illegible] stick out in the history of the links game. Francis Ouimet, back in '13, started the country's real golf life by exploding his youthful way from a triple tie to beat Britain's best pair in the open.

Jess Sweetser gave a wonderful exhibition when he ironed his way to the amateur crown at the Country Club a few years later. The same Francis Ouimet [illegible], still carries the burden of Boston hope although Guilford and Wright have a chance to step out.

You read much about the [illegible] of youth in golf. But, you notice, the same old gang usually works its way into the finals—Jones, Sweetser, Von Elm, Ouimet and Cook [illegible]. Kid stars soar up, but are knocked back by the brilliant defense of the old guard when the big test arrives.

DOG RACING WILL TRY TO ELEVATE ART

GREYHOUND racing, it is whispered, may be tried out in these parts. The boys have discovered a new way of beating the anti-gambling laws over in New York. They will give it a shot in these parts if it is judged not too illegal when it goes to court in New York, as it will, undoubtedly.

Art has been brought into the [illegible] business. The spectator of speculative tendencies can purchase a picture of the dog he fancies in a race. There is nothing contrary to law in buying a picture, even [illegible] piece, and [illegible] priced withal.

Then, if the pictured canine [illegible] the field home, the art dealers [illegible] at a considerable premium. In this way greyhound [illegible] the ordinary mind in an artistic way.

The originators of the idea would seem to be in line for a Pulitzer prize [illegible]. As Tunney elevated the ring, so will they elevate [illegible]. Until the first judge says, "Touty," which will be the first one that has a chance. But the course of art and education always has been difficult.

MICHEL MAY NOT GET BIG SWIM PRIZE

Toronto, Sept. 6 (AP)—Just what sort of money prize would be paid to Georges Michel of France for his effort in the Wrigley marathon of fifteen miles was the question uppermost in the minds of swimming de[illegible] officials here today.

[illegible] in excellent condition and spirits after having been forced out of the [illegible]

Michel, when hauled from the water, was the sole survivor among the 190 starters, and had covered twelve and one-quarter miles in the rather laborious time of eleven hours and [illegible] baker-man apparently strove to remain longer in the race than Ernest Vierkoetter, German channel victor and champion of the Wrigley marathon here last year.

Vierkoetter covered some 12 miles when taken from the water semi-conscious at 6:42 p. m. Shortly prior to this Roland H. Tessmer of [illegible] had given up the quest, and shortly afterward Louis I. Mathias of Long Island, N. Y., followed, leaving Michel alone in the ice lake with evening shadows falling.

ALL IN BAD SHAPE

All three were in bad state when removed from the water, but all responded to stimulants administered at the hospital, improvised in the Canadian National Yacht Club, near the course.

Eric Barenshee, Vierkoetter's manager, said he had ordered the husky German from the lake when it became apparent that he could [illegible] to his health.

"It would have been impossible for any human to finish 15 miles in that lake," Barenshee asserted. The [illegible] 52 degrees inside, with most of the swimming on the two and one-half-mile triangle. The water was about 15 degrees warmer last week when Ethel Hertle of New York won a 10-mile Marathon for women in five hours and twelve minutes.

It was reported that Michel quit [illegible]

[illegible] bed. I'm all in.

As he lay in the launch bundled in blankets, however, he demanded: "Why didn't they let me finish?" After being revived at the yacht club hospital, Michel was driven to his lodgings in a private motor.

The impression gained ground among the 150,000 spectators on shore that Michel would receive the prize. An unauthorized statement had gone over the radio asserting that the Frenchman would win the moment he passed Vierkoetter's mark, but Welwood Hughes, sports director of the Canadian Exposition, which sponsored the two swims, announced that Michel would not collect the first prize.

The distribution of this money and the [illegible] of secondary rewards would have to be decided by the committee, Mr. Hughes added.

READY TO TAKE OFF WITH EAGLES

Warren McGuirk, Boston College football captain, is in great shape to show the victory path to his team from the Heights. There are a number of fine frosh eleven stars out for the varsity. With the veterans available, prospects are bright for a good year for Coach McKenney. Joe is the youngest college mentor in the country.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Fresh from his record-breaking feat in the Gold Mashie tournament at Newport, R. I., George Von Elm will play his initial practice round at Brae Burn today, and he will have Walter Hagen as his guest and advisor.

It was Hagen who brought Von Elm out of [illegible] during the Walker Cup matches in Chicago [illegible] former champion feels that a round with "The Haig" will be to his benefit.

[illegible] Walter Hagen at [illegible] on Saturday.

Don't forget, boys, that the annual Commonwealth Country Club 18 hole open handicap medal play tournament started this morning and will run through tomorrow. The field will be divided into four classes and there will be two gross and four net prizes.

[illegible]

From no less an authority than Bob Harlow comes the statement that Don Moe, Frank Dolp, Bob Stein and Dr. Willing from the West will take plenty of punishment before they are eliminated from the Nationals next week.

Moe and Dolp have been working out at Brae Burn for a few days but Stein just arrived in town and will try his hand at the West Newton layout today. Dr. Willing is also due to report at Brae Burn sometime today.

The regular tees have just been opened for the first time and there is a noticeable difference in the scores. The 5th, 8th, 13th, 14th and 18th holes from the new tees will back considerable difference with the field.

In playing the new 13th green, the Brae Burn Country Club is offering for sacrifice one of the best greens on the course, the old 13th. The old putting surface is just short of the new green and as many of the boys are going to be short with their seconds, the mashie niblick approaches are going to ruin a perfectly good green.

[illegible]

Bobby Jones is playing his second practice round at Brae Burn this morning. Bobby will continue to take things easy until about Saturday when he will begin to bear down and then watch reports. Bobby will be at Unicorn this afternoon for his match with Charlie Cross against Francis Ouimet and Henry G. Lapham.

[illegible]

Phillips Finlay has returned from Maine and he acted as a marshal during the Ryder Cup exhibition. He will practice at Brae Burn today but will follow Bobby Jones' plan by taking things easy.

If you will light a Chesterfield and smoke it critically you will find no hint of harshness, but a certain mildness, with a rich, wholesome flavor.

Chesterfields satisfy without being harsh. They're mild without being insipid or tasteless.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX.

[illegible] indication that he is serious about the friendship?

The young man I am alluding to I met during a business appointment. I thought him a perfect gentleman. He was so mannerly and [illegible]

I am a very quiet girl, but I have the habit of smiling at people. Do you think this habit is bad form?

[illegible] to keep the appointment?

I thank you. SONIA.

OF course you may ask a few questions, Sonia—as many as you like.

A man may enjoy being near a girl just because she is pretty or attractive, without being seriously interested in her.

A spontaneous, friendly smile is lovely, and is one of the things that make life worth living for all of us. But smiling at strangers is not wise, because it may be interpreted as an invitation to "pick up" and acquaintance.

Unless there was a misunderstanding about the appointment, a man who fails to keep his appointment with a girl owes her an apology. If he fails to apologize he reveals his lack of manners and courtesy.

25% CHILD ENERGY
comes from this delicious food

DOES that statement surprise you, Mother? It's actually true!

There's hardly another food you can buy that's quite as rich in energy-building elements as White Rose Bread.

And best of all, you never need coax children to eat it. They simply love it. They'll gladly eat all you give them.

White Rose produces muscle as well as energy. It's rich in protein . . . calcium . . . phosphates. Just the elements needed if balanced diet is your aim.

It puts solid flesh on growing little bodies . . . hardens teeth . . . builds strong, sturdy bones and active minds.

White Rose Bread is splendid from the "housekeeping" point of view, too.

It slices easily. Retains its freshness. Delights the most particular by its delicate delicious flavor.

Every loaf is made from carefully selected ingredients. Rich, wholesome milk. Pure cane sugar. Highest-quality flour.

Now, Madam, a word of warning. At times you may be urged to accept some ordinary bread. Think, please, before you do.

Let your grocer distinctly understand that no bread but White Rose will satisfy. Do not trust your family's precious health to ordinary, untried brands.

It's at your grocer's, Madam, fresh twice daily. Continental Baking Company.

ROBERT SHELDON OF BRIDGEPORT rides like a jockey. He's as healthy a youngster as you ever saw. Carefully selected food is the answer. And that calls for White Rose Bread.

LOUISE MAHAN OF SOMERVILLE says, "Practicing is good fun." White Rose Bread every time her sensible mother says.

Despite the [illegible] dense throngs had [illegible] to give the young Prince a cordial reception and he was [illegible] by the Newfoundlanders, many of whom he had met personally in France.

The Prince arrived at St. John, New Brunswick, three days after setting foot on Canadian soil, accompanied by drenching rain, to receive a tremendous ovation and [illegible] to their part of the Domin[illegible].

The Prince visited in turn, Montreal, Port Arthur, Fort William and Winnipeg.

The Prince traveled northwards from Winnipeg, passing through the prairie lands of Edmonton, the capital of Alberta, [illegible] on to Calgary. An amusing report comes from the prairie town of Saskatoon. Witnessing the exciting performance of a party of cow punchers one day, the Prince [illegible] until the end of the program. Then, to the astonishment of everyone present, he jumped [illegible] bronco and [illegible] cowboys to follow [illegible] exciting race for a short while.

At Calgary, near the Rockies, the prince attended a citizens' lun[illegible] after which he gave a speech [illegible] some of the [illegible] had gained during his stay in the Dominion.

The Prince, experienced in farming and cattle [illegible] by his [illegible] estate, was particularly interested in the prairie regions of Northwest Canada and forthwith decided to purchase for himself a ranch in Alberta and transfer some of his English cattle there as feeders.

After initiating himself into the rough splendor of the Rockies, the Prince of Wales arrived at Vancouver Island where he was greeted by a mixture of Canadians and [illegible].

[illegible] Prince and he stayed [illegible].

Before [illegible] concluded, according to [illegible] the Prince could say that he had practically seen Canada from end to end, having traveled well over 10,000 miles in North American territory. Everywhere his reception had left nothing to be desired and he had fulfilled his ambition to learn more of the gallant Canadians.

The Prince's visit over the border [illegible] America was an unexpected development in His Royal Highness' Canadian tour.

The Prince of Wales entered American territory at Rouses Point, arriving at Washington on the day [illegible] first anniversary of the A[illegible]. President Wilson was [illegible] at the time and the honor of receiving the young statesman fell to Mr. Lansing, at that time acting as Secretary of State. Everywhere the Prince was welcomed in the [illegible] fashion. The American press made a special feature of welcoming the Prince, and for several days devoted considerable space to [illegible] accounts of the movements of the royal visit.

From Washington, the Prince proceeded to New York, where the rousing cheers which [illegible] him as he drove through the streets were one of the features of his visit to America.

The Prince left the shores of Canada with happy thoughts in his mind and happier words on his [illegible].

Though the Prince did not speak of his admiration for America [illegible] on his Australian tour he then confessed: "I always feel happy amongst Americans and in America [illegible] because American life appeals to me greatly and I have many American friends."

As a remark can have an edge to it, so [illegible] heavy [illegible] has a striking edge of narrow dyed squirrel on its scarf collar.

Button up your girdle is a new dictate of fashion. Fine silk jersey, covered with cream lace, and opening at the side, has tiny pearl buttons. A bandeau matches the girdle and makes a charming set for the slender Miss.

A house divided against itself is sure to fall, but that doesn't hold with lingeries when it combines two different colors. With slips and chemises the waist is of one color, while the skirt is of another. Lavender and yellow, pink and blue, green and rose are popular combinations.

The anti-climax of the scarf mode is reached in the handkerchief scarf of fur. This important new accessory is very striking when made up in pale gray broadtail.

Mrs. Ida Lapointe Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Child

"Eczema broke out on my son's face and arms in a rash. Later the affected parts seemed to swell and watery blisters formed. It itched and burned and he scratched continually causing it to spread. He was very cross and used to wake up in the night crying. His face was terrible, and I was ashamed to take him out.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After two or three treatments I could see that he was greatly relieved. We purchased more and in three weeks he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Ida Lapointe, 532 Bridge St., Holyoke, Mass.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

"SECOND honeymoons" are becoming more and more popular. I mean "second honeymoons" with the same "used" husband and the original model wife.

Whether it comes after a long life of perfect love or after a separation and reunion, a second honeymoon is far more restful and less disappointing than the most thrilling first honeymoon!

There is no gaudily staged wedding to leave the bridegroom a nervous wreck and the bride all frazzled out after the struggle with florists, caterers and trousseau fittings. There are no chattering bridesmaids, practical jokers or weeping mothers to distract the lovers from the real sentiment of the affair.

You just pick up a toothbrush, a handbag and a pair of comfy house slippers and step casually off, on the spur of the moment, to some happy old haunt or new scene, where you can be alone together.

The bride suffers no shock of disappointment or chagrin when the bridegroom fails to notice her imported new negligee or the real lace insets in her crepe de Chine things; and no bitter disillusionment when she sees him, without a collar, padding around in his bare feet with his hair all mussed up.

She isn't "hurt" when he centers his attention on a book or shows a healthy interest in a porterhouse steak, or goes out to get a shave without kissing her good-bye.

She does not lie awake half the night wondering if she has made a "mistake" every time he answers her questions with a grunt or tells her that her nose needs powdering.

By the time the "second honeymoon" comes around, most of a man's notions about feminine perfection and the duties of a wife have been completely revised, and he is not looking for either gilt wings or horns. And most of a woman's tender sensibilities and sore spots have become comfortably calloused, so that she can devote herself to something besides self-pity.

In fact, NO honeymoon journey should be taken with a brand new husband or a perfectly strange wife. The honeymoon should be saved up for the day of dead calm, when you have gotten used to each other, and can actually enjoy the change and the scenery.

And no second honeymoon should be spent at the SAME place as the first honeymoon in an effort to recapture the first thrills. There is no road BACK to romance!

But the second honeymoon can be far sweeter than the first and far more glamorous and full of tenderness. For then, at last, you KNOW your heart—and love is no guessing game!

B. & M. PLANS BIG EXCURSION

The last reduced rate excursion to Lake Winnipesaukee, New Hampshire's vast island-dotted lake, will be run next Sunday, by the Boston and Maine Railroad. For pleasure and care-free comfort many people are finding these excursions by train much more enjoyable than driving over crowded highways.

At Lake Winnipesaukee, excursionists may leave the train at Alton Bay or continue on the Weirs, where boat rides, band concerts, airplane flights and bathing provide a full and enjoyable program for the day's outing. From the decks of the Mt. Washington, in regular service around the lake or Alton Bay or Weirs, an excellent panoramic view of the beautiful shores can be obtained.

The Lake Winnipesaukee excursion train leaves Boston at 7:45 a. m. (E. S. T.), returning, leaves Weirs at 5:15 p. m. (E. S. T.) and Alton Bay at 6:30 p. m. Taking friends or the whole family for this day's outing at Lake Winnipesaukee is possible because of the low round trip fare of only $2.

MARKET SALES NEAR 5 MILLION

or the year on gains ranging from fractions to four points.

Oils, which have been the only important laggards in the current bull market, attracted a large following. Texas Corporation, California Petroleum, Barnsdall A, Warner Quinlan and Tidewater-Associated all moved into new high ground for the year.

Bullish demonstrations also were staged in a number of chain store, food, amusement and public utility shares. Park & Tilford advanced to another new high in response to the publication of a record-breaking semi-annual report. Calumet & Hecla, Mathieson Alkali and American Safety Razor also bettered their previous 1928 high prices. Curtiss and Wright each advanced 4 points.

Around midday, the general list began to sell off. Federal Mining & Smelting, ordinarily inactive, broke 10 points. Radio extended its loss to 7. Chrysler, which established a new peak soon after the opening, fell 7 points below last night's close, as did American International, Victor Talking Machine, Gold Dust and Allied Chemical.

THEATRE CLASH LOOMS IN N. Y.

New York, Sept. 6 (INS)—The menace of a theatrical strike today hung heavy over Broadway for the first time since the actors' equity strike in 1919.

Two thousand stage hands, from every legitimate house in the city, may walk out Saturday if their demands for better wages and hours are not met by the International Theatrical Association, an organization of theatrical producers.

In Chicago a general motion picture theater strike looms as stage hands and picture operators threaten to join the walkout of the musicians.

Department heads in New York, of whom there are three in each theater — property man, carpenter and electrician—ask $100 weekly. They get between $75 and $100.

Assistants who have been receiving $65 want $90. Ordinary stage-hands want $8 a performance rather than $6.

British Science Leader Agrees 'Man Has a Soul'

Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 6 (AP)—Man has a soul in the belief of Sir William Bragg, Nobel prize winner and new president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

In expressing this opinion in his inaugural address, Sir William directly contradicted the view expressed last year by its then president, Sir Arthur Keith, who rejected the idea of an after-life.

"Science is not setting forth to destroy the soul," said Sir William, shaking his finger at the 3000 scientists who heard him, "but to keep body and soul together."

Some persons, he asserted, thought that modern science would destroy reverence and faith. He said he did not know how that could be said of the student "who stands daily in the presence of what seems to him to be infinite.

Describing science as "a conservative of the conservatives," he asserted, "science is not so foolish as to throw away that in which the slowly gathered wisdom of the ages is stored."

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment, and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

HOOVER HAS PUT OUT $312,000

Washington, Sept. 6 (INS)—The second monthly report on Republican campaign finances, on file today, shows receipts to date of $658,418 and expeditures of $612,216. The original budget was for $4,000,000, but Herbert Hoover ordered it cut to $3,000,000. The larger contributions included: $25,000 each, Walter Chrysler, W. C. Durant, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Charles Hayden, Jeremiah Millbank, George Eastman and M. L. Schiff, all of New York; $10,000 each, George M. Moffett and Edward W. Bok of New York, Julius Rosenwald and James Simpson of Chicago; $5000 each, L. E. Pierson, Charles D. Hilles and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Horne of New York. Dwight Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico, contributed $5000.

HOW I GOT MY MAN!

"I chased him for days to get his name into my autograph album."
"He decided to hire me as a fake fiancee to save himself from a beautiful vamp."
"My job was to sock him in the jaw every time he began to weaken. And I did it."
"If you really want to get some household hints on how to land a man, you must come over to see my pic."

MERRY Marion Davies is with us again—and oh, boy, you're going to be glad. In "The Fair Co-Ed" and in "The Patsy" she started a wave of laughter that rocked this nation from Coast to Coast. Critics all agree Marion Davies is the screen's leading comedienne, and when you see her now you're going to say—and how!

THIS IS A RIOT!

Only a few times in the history of the screen has a Broadway stage hit become an even greater photoplay sensation. This is one of those times, and our advice is come one, come all!

the whole town's laughing

UNUSUAL MUSIC IN NEW CHAIN PROGRAM

By FRED TOYE,
Radio Editor.

LISTENERS who might have expected familiar and perhaps hackneyed pieces with the advent of a new Columbia program announced for last night under the title of "Long, Long ago," were pleasantly disappointed. The newcomer on the weekly roster of the youngest chain commenced with a Handel fragment for small orchestra. Technically the work was part of that composer's fifth concerto. This was followed by a characteristic song from an old work of the almost forgotten Senfl, repeating the clang of the bell in an interesting blend of mixed voices. The minuet period was brought before the mind's eye in a delicate arrangement by Felix Mottl of Gretry's "Diana's Nymphs." It is strange that program directors do not more readily see the possibilities which lie in seventeenth and eighteenth century music. It was all written for small orchestras of strings and wood-winds. These instruments lend themselves perfectly to present day broadcast reproduction. The Gretry number was a splendid illustration of the radio effectiveness of this type. The program continued through an interesting variety, with two soprano solos giving old English songs of Dr. Arnold and William Byrd, an orchestral piece from the pen of Byrd, a mixed quartet rendering of "Robin Loves Me" by Adam de la Haye, and the Finale from Hayden's Sixth Symphony.

LITTLE HEARD MUSIC

THE UNITED MILITARY BAND introduced parts of the little heard Walpurgis Night music from Gounod's "Faust." This ballet music, standing by itself as a concert piece, and depicting classic scenes, seems to have little in common with the pared-down Mephistopheles-Marguerite myth usually presented on the opera stage.

KOLSTER PRESENTS LOPEZ

VINCENT LOPEZ, long familiar to New York audiences, was heard locally through WNAC's association with the Columbia Chain in the Kolster Radio Hour last night. The broadcast was scheduled as the first in a series, and there is no doubt that this pioneer broadcaster of dance music will be welcome to New England listeners. In last night's program Lopez introduced a "symphonic" version of Irving Berlin's first success, "Alexander's Ragtime Band." Another piece de resistance was entitled "Vanities Symphonique," based on tunes prevalent in the current Earl Carroll "Vanities."

NEW COLUMBIA FEATURE

THOSE PERSONS who member Isadora Duncan in the days of her youthful beauty and charm, will get a thrill when they hear the second number in tonight's program devoted to "Melodies and Memories." This program is a new feature on the Columbia chain, to be heard from WNAC at 10 o'clock. The number referred to is the entrancing Gavotte from Gluck's "Iphigenia in Aulis." To one who has seen the late dancer interpret the classic myth to the music of Gluck, the repetition of such morsels brings back a vivid picture. In her dance depicting the joy of the maidens of Chalcis there ran a thread of dark tragedy, reminiscent of the threatened sacrifice of Iphigenia by her father, and anticipating tragic events to come. With uncanny clairvoyance Isadora thus held up to her audience a living picture of her own life and of her belief in the classic Greek theory of an unrelenting and unreasoning fate always pursuing its chosen victims.

TONIGHT ON WBZ

WBZ brings at 8 o'clock tonight another O. Henry story in the National Broadcasting Co.'s series of Re-Told Tales. This time it is "Shoes," and it will have the usual O. Henry twist. The Maxwell hour will bring music of the semi-serious type including a "Manx Suite" by Tootell, and the prelude to Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" for the orchestra, and the prelude to "Le Deluge" by Saint-Saens for violin. Later in the evening the Michelin Tire Men will give one of their customary programs.

MANY FRIENDS

HUNDREDS of listeners are grateful for the inclusion of the River Choristers on the WEEI schedule. Tonight they do songs all of which are of Canadian flavor. Four of the offerings are by MacMillan, and three by Gibbon. The latest Irving Berlin hit, "Ten Little Miles From Town," is included in tonight's Hoover program.

ANOTHER DELAY IN GUSTIN EXTRADITION

Another postponement, this time until November 1, was ordered today in the case of Frank Wallace, alias Gustin, wanted in Detroit for robbery and murder. The South Boston youth was taken to court from Charles St. jail on the fugitive from justice warrant that has already taken him into court several times. Inspector James Claflin asked the continuance, explaining that a Supreme court decision on the Governor's granting of extradition is not now expected until November.

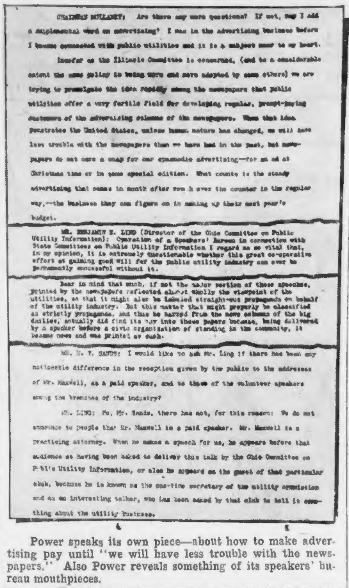
DOGS FIRST PREVENT, THEN ASSIST IN FIRE ALARM

Randolph, Sept. 6—Dogs played the role of a fire alarm when a truck caught fire on the State highway near the Quincy line today, but the vehicle was destroyed at a loss of $1,800. The gas tank blew up when the flames reached it. The driver, discovering the fire, stopped and tried to get into the house of Edward Dolan to telephone the fire department. Dolan's dogs chased him away, but their barking aroused Dolan, who got help.

Somerville Autoist Fined

Grant L. Wiswell of Beckwith circle, Somerville, paid a fine of $50 in Somerville court today for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Power's Mouthpiece



CHAIRMAN MULLANEY: Are there any more questions? If not, may I add a supplemental word on advertising? I was in the advertising business before I became connected with public utilities and it is a subject near to my heart.

Insofar as the Illinois Committee is concerned, (and to a considerable extent the same policy is being more and more adopted by some others) we are trying to promulgate the idea rapidly among the newspapers that public utilities offer a very fertile field for developing regular, prompt-paying customers of the advertising columns of the newspapers. When that idea penetrates the United States, unless human nature has changed, we will have less trouble with the newspapers than we have had in the past, but newspapers do not care a snap for our spasmodic advertising—for an ad at Christmas time or in some special edition. What counts is the steady advertising that comes in month after month over the counter in the regular way,—the business they can figure on in making up their next year's budget.

MR. BENJAMIN E. LING (Director of the Ohio Committee on Public Utility Information): Operation of a Speakers' Bureau in connection with State Committees on Public Utility Information I regard as so vital that, in my opinion, it is extremely questionable whether this great co-operative effort at gaining good will for the public utility industry can ever be permanently successful without it.

Bear in mind that much, if not the major portion of these speeches, printed by the newspapers reflected almost wholly the viewpoint of the utilities, so that it might also be labeled straight-out propaganda on behalf of the utility industry. But this matter that might properly be classified as strictly propaganda, and thus be barred from the news columns of the big dailies, actually did find its way into these papers because, being delivered by a speaker before a civic organization of standing in the community, it became news and was printed as such.

MR. E. T. SANDS: I would like to ask Mr. Ling if there has been any noticeable difference in the reception given by the public to the addresses of Mr. Maxwell, as a paid speaker, and to those of the volunteer speakers among the branches of the industry?

MR. LING: No, Mr. Sands, there has not, for this reason: We do not announce to people that Mr. Maxwell is a paid speaker. Mr. Maxwell is a practicing attorney. When he makes a speech for us, he appears before that audience as having been asked to deliver this talk by the Ohio Committee on Public Utility Information, or else he appears as the guest of that particular club, because he is known as the one-time secretary of the utility commission and as an interesting talker, who has been asked by that club to tell it something about the utility business.

Power speaks its own piece—about how to make advertising pay until "we will have less trouble with the newspapers." Also Power reveals something of its speakers' bureau mouthpieces.

POWER LOBBY INQUIRY WILL RESUME SOON

By ROBERT S. THORNSBURGH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Sept. 6—Particularly important because of the political significance in view of the approaching general elections, the "power trust" inquiry will be resumed this month by the Federal Trade Commission.

Subpoenas were being issued today for officials of the utilities organizations in Pacific coast and other states which have not so far been investigated.

Besides the Pacific states, Alabama is among the most important remaining for scrutiny. It was expected that by the study of propaganda methods of utilities groups in this State much would be brought into the record relative to the Muscle Shoals project.

Already utilities information, distributed widely to the press, schools and civic organizations, has aroused political discussion and further evidence to be presented between the opening of hearings is expected to increase interest.

When Pacific utilities executives are summoned the commission will go into the Western situation in more detail because of the unusual resources for hydro-electric development on the west coast.

LOS ANGELES IN STORM RACE

Washington, Sept. 6 (INS)—The navy dirigible Los Angeles, which left Lakehurst yesterday for Langley Field, Va., to assist in training an airship ground crew, turned north during the night to avoid a storm over the Chesapeake Bay area, the Navy Department declared today.

The crew is to be trained to handle the new dirigible to be flown from Germany this fall.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 6 (INS)—The dirigible Los Angeles passed over Albany shortly before 10 o'clock today. It was headed north and its destination was not known.

MANHOLE BLAST INQUEST IS LAUNCHED BY NEAL

An inquest into the causes of the explosion which projected two manholes into the air at Boylston st. and Massachusetts ave., was conducted at the State House today by Fire Marshal Neal.

After hearing a number of witnesses, including fire officials, police and employes of the Edison company, the marshal announced he would reserve decision until he has heard a chemist in the employ of the Edison company.

BODY OF MAN FOUND IN DANVERS RIVER

Danvers, Sept. 6—The body of an unidentified man, believed by police to be a murder victim, was found in the mouth of the Danvers river today. The body, well dressed, and that of a man of 40, was lodged in the mud near the wharf of the Danvers Coal Company and was taken to an undertaking establishment by police. A fresh cut over the eye led Chief of Police Timothy J. Conners to investigate a theory of foul play. No identification marks were found.

SALEM HEARTY IN WELCOME TO CURTIS

Salem, Sept. 6 (AP)—Republicans of northeastern Massachusetts gave Senator Curtis, Republican Vice-Presidential nominee, a hearty welcome on his visit here today.

Stopping over at Salem for a luncheon given by the Republican city committee, the Senator also found on his program a meeting later in the day at Salem Willows.

Joseph L. Simon, chairman of the city committee, presided at the luncheon and Mayor Bates formally welcomed the nominee.

Representative Andrew and other party leaders of this section attended the rally.

Motoring to Salem from Boston, Senator Curtis stopped for a visit in Swampscott at the New Ocean House, where he called upon Mr. and Mrs. Clem Kennedy of that town.

UNION LOSES IN FIGHT ON BAUER

The Progressive Shoeworkers of Lynn failed today to obtain a temporary injunction restraining Mayor Bauer from interfering with their hiring of Lasters' Hall on the ground that they are "reds, radicals and communists." Judge Weed in Suffolk Superior Court, refusing the restraining order, set September 13 as the date for a hearing.

Counsel for the shoeworkers said the mayor had threatened owners of halls with increased taxes if they let their properties to the organization.

Counsel for Mayor Bauer said the only objection of city authorities was to two speakers who were scheduled to appear at the coming meeting.

WEBB AND READ ON FARM LABOR TICKET

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 6 (INS)—Frank Elbridge Webb, of San Francisco, for President and Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, as running mate, was the choice of the Farmer-Labor party in convention here today.

The convention, at which only 17 persons were in attendance—13 men and four women—adopted a resolution indorsing the Californian and Missourian as the choices of a party which has not been "soaked partly or wholly in the rottenness of corruption."

BARTLETT SEES RECORD MAINE VOTE FOR HOOVER

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—The largest Republican majority in the history of Maine was predicted for the party ticket today by John H. Bartlett, former governor of New Hampshire and now first assistant postmaster general, upon return here from a speaking trip in New England. "New Hampshire also will be carried by the Hoover-Curtis ticket," Bartlett said. He predicted that "before election day the Republican strength in Massachusetts will be thoroughly solidified."

Autoist Is Fined $15

For driving through a safety zone on Broadway, Somerville, William F. McCarthy of Mt. Auburn st., Watertown, paid a fine of $10 in the Somerville court today. For operating an automobile with no certificate of registration, he paid an additional $5 fine.

NORTHEASTERN REGISTERS 450

The largest registration in the history of Northeastern University was recorded today with the entrance of a day division freshman class numbering 450. Of this number, 330 enrolled in the school of engineering and 120 started on the business administration course. About 200 applicants were denied admission, according to John B. Pugsley, registrar.

As many students as registered today already are assigned to the midyear freshman class. The first semester for upper classmen begins Monday, but new students will be feted at a faculty reception in Repertory Hall tomorrow night. Freshman convocation will take place Saturday.

NATIONAL POLICIES OF THE HEARST NEWSPAPERS

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve among themselves and promote the peace of the world.
2. A constitutional amendment to provide for the election of United States Senators in numbers proportionate to the population of each State, but no State to have less than two Senators. A reapportionment of Congressional representation immediately after every census, or in case of the failure of Congress so to act, to make the apportionment automatic at the end of the first Congressional session, the proportion of population for each representative in each case to be that of the existing Congress.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defence.
4. Federal action the limit of Federal Government powers to abolish illiteracy among the people of the United States, and the creation of a Secretary of Education.
5. Necessary measures to secure the election of Congress in November and its installation on the 1st January following, and the inauguration of a President on the 1st of January immediately following his election in November.

Cuckoo

Too Many "on the Chin"

A man, young in years, but very old physically, attracted sympathetic attention in Rochester, N. Y., recently because of his mental infirmities.

His friends said he was "cuckoo," because he had been hit too many times on the chin. He was a professional prizefighter and, in professional ring parlance, he had been "softened up."

He was a complete loss to society—a physical ruin.

Massachusetts provides a State Athletic Commission to protect professional prizefighters in the act of beating one another into insensibility—if they can. A fist fight in the street is illegal, but a fist fight in a public hall, properly licensed and approved by State officials, is safe from interference.

In California an anti-prizefighting petition is being circulated against organized brutality and viciousness. Despite misrepresentation the lists already bear more than 80,000 signatures, with the goal of 120,000 certain to be attained. Never in the history of California has there been a finer demonstration of good citizenship, backed up by militant determination.

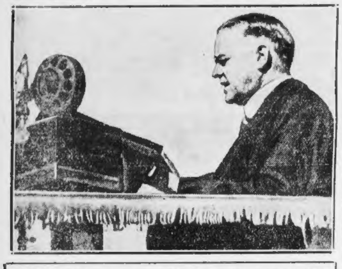
CITIZENS OF MASSACHUSETTS MIGHT WELL DO LIKEWISE and rid themselves for all time of the army of loafers and criminals engendered by professional prize fighting.

Meanwhile, what is to become of the young man who is "cuckoo?"

Will the members of the New York State Athletic Commission provide for him? Of course not, and besides—they are too busy providing legal ways and means for other young men to become "cuckoo."

Concentration—Makes the Man

Lack of It Means FAILURE



HERBERT HOOVER, TALKING TO 70,000,000 AMERICANS

This photograph of Herbert Hoover talking to 70,000,000 Americans, with the aid of the radio, tells more about the man than you might get from ten thousand words of description.

Every man depends on his ability TO CONCENTRATE.

He depends on his ability to center upon that which occupies him all the POWER that he possesses.

All through Nature, from the lowest forms of life up to man, you see the importance of concentration.

A woodpecker, to make a hole in the tree, must keep driving his sharp, powerful beak over and over at THE SAME SPOT.

He is concentrated on that and on nothing else. There is no wandering, no wavering.

Man, to plant conviction in the minds of others, which is "making a hole" in those minds, must concentrate his mind and his body upon the task in hand. Concentration of the body goes with concentration of the mind.

The nation is deeply interested in Herbert Hoover, who may be elected President of the United States in November, as it is interested in Governor Smith, also candidate for President.

This picture of intense concentration interests all, the young especially, apart from politics.

It shows Mr. Hoover's finely developed head, with ear low down. All the brain is ABOVE the ear. An intelligent man's ear opening is below his eyes.

You notice that Mr. Hoover has a well-rounded head, high forehead, well-developed backhead.

IDEAS ARE BORN in the front brain, back of the forehead. They are CARRIED OUT by the energy of the back brain. A man with a big forehead may have ideas but fail to realize them. The man with a good forehead, plus a big backhead, can put plans through.

That probably accounts for Herbert Hoover's success as a planning and executing engineer and in other lines.

Young ladies and gentlemen that see this picture should make it useful TO THEMSELVES. Power and the habit of concentration can be cultivated.

As monkeys jump around in their cage you observe that not one of them keeps his mind on anything for more than a few seconds. He grabs another monkey's tail, scratches straw, swings from one bar to another, eats a peanut, he hops down, hops up. NO CONCENTRATION.

The average human being cannot concentrate on thought for more than ONE minute. In fact that is above the average and is doing fairly well.

You can do a great deal of thinking in one minute, if you are really thinking, not MOONING.

Practice concentration, practice thought. Those two combined account for every success in this world.

SCHOOL A WONDERFUL INSTITUTION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THE school is about the finest institution in the world. It is the greatest thing that social evolution has produced.

What more ideal group could there be than a number of people, young or old, gathered together for the purpose of study!

Think of having nothing to do but study, no working for a living, no striving for social precedence, and no war.

Somebody has said that if Socrates were alive today and should visit any of our cities, he would not be surprised at the churches, for they had temples in Greece, neither would he be surprised at our State Houses and court houses, for they had public buildings of old; but he would be amazed to find that many of our most splendid edifices were schoolhouses. That would be an entirely new and modern note. Greece and Rome had nothing like it.

To be sure, there were schools in those days, but education was for the few. Teachers existed who gathered their little coterie of disciples about them, but no such thing as a scheme for general education existed.

Some people have that old notion of education yet. A president of a college in New England once told me that college was not for every man, but for the chosen few. A good many boys, he said, were simply wasting their time at college. They had better be plowing.

Unconsciously this was a condemnation of his school. If he meant that every boy was not cut out to be a member of the learned professions, perhaps he was quite correct.

In olden days schools were only for gentlemen and the satellites of gentlemen, doctors to wait on them when they were sick, lawyers to manage their affairs, and preachers to save their souls, if any.

Nowadays, however, education is thought to be a good thing also for the engineer, mechanic, laborer and merchant. And colleges should be so organized as to prepare one, not only for the learned professions, but also to train those who seek other pursuits.

Schools are not only to prepare us for enjoying our leisure, but for doing our work. An Irish washwoman opposed the Gary system because, she said, "I don't want to have my boy taught to work. I want him to go to school and git smart so he won't have to work."

The school must be the most flexible of all institutions. It must take hold of any kind of a human being and develop him. It must not be a Procrustean bed, which all children must fit or not be "suitable for college"; it must be so fluid that it will adapt itself to any personality.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

BEFORE she had been in the room five minutes everyone was uncomfortable. People wiggled, looked silly, coughed, fumbled with their handkerchiefs. Jokes ravelled out. Smiles stiffened. Snickers snagged.

Everyone began groping for some topic of conversation which would kindle a little warmth in the lady's glassy eye and lift her drooping jowl. But they groped in vain.

It was evident that she was Not Interested in our company.

And, not being interested, she was doggoned if she was going to act interested.

So there she sat.

Just like a gallstone.

And sat. And sat.

And that was the end of that party.

"What on earth ailed her?" said I to my hostess later, when my tonsils had thawed. "How did she get that way? Did anyone insult her or steal the family diamonds or murder her pet canary or anything?"

The more I warmed to my subject the madder I got. This stranger had clamped herself down on my perfectly good evening and killed it dead. I wanted explanation—lots of explanation.

My hostess smiled. "Oh, you mustn't mind her," she said. "THAT'S JUST HER WAY!

"She really doesn't mean it, you know. She's a splendid woman, and she has a heart of gold. She's so wonderful to her family. You ought to hear of the lovely things she does for them. But she's had such a hard life. And I guess it has affected her for she has that way with her. But she's really a beautiful nature."

Well, perhaps she is.

And perhaps scorpions and tarantulas and typhoid germs and bubonic baccili also have lovely characters and are wonderful to their families, but I still can't warm up to them nor do I consider them social assets. And I feel exactly the same as regards human blights with hearts of gold, but the manner of a good, hard dose of hives.

You know the breed, old dear. The supercilious ladies and the supersensitive gents—the peevish papas and the maudlin mamas—the garrulous girls and the boresome boys—the brooders and the broadcasters who wreck our social gatherings—and all the other pests who make life miserable because of their "odd little ways."

Maybe they'll be useful in heaven, but they're a wash-out here. And I refuse to use up my imagination searching for their hidden treasure. I like comfort. And I tell you straight that if it comes to choosing between a sinner with a nice soothing line and a saint with the manners of a wood tick—ME FOR THE SINNER, EVERY TIME.

Also I rise to remark that the world has dealt far too leniently with "odd little ways." Why in heck should anyone be permitted to go around with an "odd little way" that destroys the peace and happiness of his fellow man even if he has a golden heart and a beautiful liver. Gentlemen carrying bombs, stilettos, sawed-off shot guns, poison pellets and other unhealthy bric-a-brac are gathered up pronto by the police and no one stops to consider their possibly lovely motives. Then why be so considerate with gentry who go around emanating psychological poison gas? If that's their "little way" why shouldn't they change their little way? And if they won't why shouldn't we organize to sell them the idea with a few little ways of our own?

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

The first bond of society is marriage; the next, our children; then the whole family and all things in common—Cicero.

To treat a poor wretch with a bottle of burgundy, and fill his snuff box is like giving a pair of lace ruffles to a man that have never a shirt on his back.—Brown.

Expel avarice, the mother of all wickedness, who, always thirsty for more, opens wide her jaws for gold. —Claudianus.

Young men are fitter to invent than to judge; fitter for execution than for counsel; and fitter for new projects than for settled business. —Bacon.

A man's own observation, what he finds good of, and what he finds hurt of, is the best physic to preserve health.—Bacon.

Seeing America First

BY O.O. McINTYRE

ON THE NEVADA DESERT, Sept. 6—Every city dweller is awed by the desert. The biggest box office movie successes in New York have been those depicting the camel riding sheiks dashing across the burning sands. It is a natural reaction of a massed civilization.

From Reno in a 40-mile drive one may reach the heart of the painted desert where the utter opulence of color is well nigh bewildering. The sun was merciless in its heat. All of us were gasping and the dog was frothing at the mouth as though mad. We passed three rattle snakes.

Just when we thought we could stand it no longer and prepared to turn back we came upon Pyramid lake that lies like a sapphire jewel at the edge of the desert. It sets between fantastic crags and spires that gives it its name. The dog raced for the water and sat squatting up to his neck. He's no fool.

Pelicans and sea gulls swarmed overhead giving the effect of aeroplanes passing. Fishermen were casting for trout. And a mile or so away was a touch of modernity in a motion picture outfit taking a few shots.

Beyond was the trail of the hunter leading to the game bird of the desert—the sage hen. Reno is doubtless the sportsman's paradise for in a few hours' drive he can fish for mountain trout and hunt pheasants, mountain quail, rabbits and even coyotes and wildcats.

Frightened wild deer often race through Reno streets after dark. Coming back over the desert in the glow of a magnificent sunset a flivver carrying two Indians in costume passed. They waved pleasantly and I nearly unhinged my neck bowing.

There is something about meeting two Indians on a lonely desert that would never, never draw me out of the house before breakfast. I would at least want a sip or so of coffee. The dog barked at them ferociously and if the looks we gave him could kill he would be a dead little dog.

Nevada has no corporation income tax, State inheritance tax or State stamp tax. It seems to offer every inducement possible to bring people here for permanent citizenship and as a result has a conglomerate citizenry—nobody, just as in New York, appears to have been born here.

The state has acquired a great deal of the boosting manner of its neighbor California, and while I doubt it will ever reach the Golden State opulence, it is making steady progress.

Tonight we are domiciled in a little suburb of Reno with no particular notion where we will go next. After a trip across a desert one hasn't much thought of going any place save to bed. About 12 miles away is Virginia City, once famous during the gold rush as the home of the Comstock Lode. Carson City is a drive of 30 miles and aside from being the capital has been the scene of many historic prize fights. Then there is Lake Tahoe about 50 miles away, which California has praised in song and story.

All of this Nevada country is intensely interesting and often inspiring, but my lot has been cast too long with cities. After a stretch of a few days in the great open spaces I long to hear street cars bump and the shrill of a crossing cop's whistle. Nature is oopsie-daisie and all that, but there is a gloss to our high speed civilization in cities. There are times when many of us feel we could leave New York and its madness and never return. But invariably a few weeks absence brings about a cure and we are panting for its theaters, safes, zip and eternal hurrah. Isolated New Yorkers say a year away and all longing for the metropolis vanishes. I fear I would—all right, I'll shut up.

But I have some rights. And no matter what others may think, I could never care for a desert horned toad!

But the Eagle Is Wise

A large majority of the fifty-three votes in the Assembly of the League of Nations has been pledged to elect Charles Evans Hughes to the seat on the World Court bench recently vacated by another American, John Bassett Moore.

This fact involves a personal compliment to Mr. Hughes, which he and his friends will appreciate.

If we concede the propriety of an American sitting on a foreign court which his own country does not recognize, Mr. Hughes is as well qualified a choice as the League Assembly could make.

But if this gesture from Geneva is calculated as bait to draw this country toward the League and its court it will not avail.

The determination of the United States to keep full control of its own sovereignty, to make no entangling alliances and to meet its international obligations in the future, as in the past, on the basis recommended by every wise American from Washington to this day, is fixed and unalterable.

The Teacher

Dealer in Human Nature

John D. Clark, in his mid-forties, after winning wealth and fame as head of a Western oil company, has retired to qualify as a teacher.

It is an unusual choice. Many men who quit business careers try vainly to find congenial fads in which to engage their energies, or frankly seek pleasure in loafing—generally to be disappointed.

It seems to us that Mr. Clark has shown good judgment. If he has in him the qualities of a teacher, there is no work that offers richer values in service and contentment.

The teacher deals in the most interesting material there is—human nature. He does not exploit its weaknesses. He seeks to build up its strength. When he knows how, he does the most important work that can be undertaken.

Therefore, the chances are that Mr. Clark will find more real satisfaction in his new field of human engineering than he ever found in amassing dollars.
